Foreword

HAPPY faces will soon be gone and lively chatter will disappear as another school year is ended. Through this, our Annual Reflector, we have tried to help you recall the many activities and faces that made this a happy year. We extend our best wishes to the faculty and student body with the sincere hope that this yearbook will bring pleasure to all and serve as a memento to those who go on.

NINTH GRADE GROUP

Journalism

DURING THE YEAR the journalism class has striven to publish good Reflectors and to write in them the things which they thought you would enjoy reading. A total of seven monthly Reflectors and one Annual were issued under the direction of Mr. Etkind.

Due to the war and the shortage of paper, the style of the Reflector was changed. The February issue announced this change which eliminated the front and back covers and featured large headlines in newspaper style.

At the beginning of the year elections were held with David Rizer chosen as editor-in-chief; Joyce Silhavy, Marilyn Holmquist, and Jean Lewis as associate editors; Karol Janke as exchange editor, and Phyllis Rice as class secretary.

NINTH GRADE GROUP

A number of new columns were added to the Reflector, including "Private Peeks" and "Rumorous Rhymes."

Every Monday the class wrote short stories and personal essays and on Wednesdays they wrote their news leads. Points were awarded for the leads according to their content. Marilyn Holmquist had the highest number of points.

Eileen List, and editor of the Student Lantern, visited the journalism class and gave them very many interesting pointers on newspaper work.

When it was time to start working on the Annual, another election was held with Marilyn Holmquist being chosen editor-in-chief.

After all the copy had been written for the Annual, the class took trips to the Saginaw News where they saw how a newspaper is compiled and later to Seemann and Peters to see how the Annual picture engraving was done.

On June 1 the campaign for the sale of Annual Reflectors began with the slogan "Keep 'Em Flying" and ended on June 5.

Airplanes representing the different home rooms were placed on the bulletin board on the first floor. As the sales increased the planes went higher.

Next year a new group will be writing the Reflectors. Wishes of good luck are extended to each and every one of the staff from all members of the Reflector staff of 1941-42.

Class Prophecy

WOULDN'T you like to know what some of your classmates will be doing ten years from now? Then let's have our magician Swami cast a spell over us and hurry into the future for a quick glance.

In Hollywood Riva Meredith is attending a preview of her latest picture "The Woman Who Came to Dinner," co-starring Bruce Kampfert. Also in the cast are Betty Jean Kretz, Jean Schneider, and Dorothy Hendrick.

In a large hotel in San Francisco is "The Oxford Shop," an exclusive dress shop owned by Betty Peters and Yvonne Dee. Their newest dress creations are being modeled by Patricia Holnagel, Natalie Strachan, Jean Hutchinson, Carolyn King, Beverly Sheppard, Jean Ames, and Shirley Owen.

In the next limousine are Kathryn Smelly, holder of the speed record for women swimmers, Marjorie Seitz of the famous comedy team, "Bert and Marge" and Norma Pinkerton, dean of Vassar College.

In Salt Lake City, Barbara Brown, one of the F. B. I.'s most efficient agents, is being awarded a medal for capturjng Public Enemy No. 1, Percy Appleseed. Among the co-workers present at the ceremony are Leona Simons, Raymond Strong, Gloria Adrian, and Charles Nelson.

Over in Denver, Colorado, Marilyn Holmquist, Joyce Silhavy, and Karol Janke are reporters on the Denver Times. Karol's "advice to the lovelorn" column has made her very famous. Also in the paper is the famous cartoon "Hedy La Horse" drawn by Bill Dillon and Bob Salow.

In their studios in Wichita, Kansas, the famous composers, Bill Waters and Mike Kish, are hard at work writing a new song entitled "I'm Silly Over Willie."

At station W. O. W. in St. Louis are Nancy Luther, Margaret Wright, Bill Thompson, Bill Dannemiller, and Jean Gudritz, intelligent masterminds of the new program, "We, The Experts, Speak."

Over in Memphis, Shirley Orr is now running a branch of the Arthur Murray dancing school. Shirley is trying to teach the rhumba to Evelyn Nally, dietician, George Wright, Boy Scout director, Joyce Nichols, radio singer, and Walter Cleveland, owner and operator of the Memphis National Bank.

Deep in the heart of Texas, Marilyn Plumb is breaking broncos on her own ranch. Marilyn has just settled down again in Texas after having an unhappy love affair with the New York playboy, William Baker.

At New Orleans' most famous night spot, "The Zoot Club," the new kind of swing, Norman Pockrandt, and his orchestra are being featured. Members of his band are: Bill Housner, John Neilson, Otto Carlson, Jim Hickey, and Carl Schrage. The featured vocalist of the orchestra is Peggy Osmond.

Also in New Orleans is Jack Smith who now owns and operates a factory manufacturing ladies' face creams and powders. Assisting him are the famous beauty experts, Beatrice Mainprize, Eleanor Passmore, and Elaine Draves.

In Mobile, Virginia Kristinek has taken up the unusual career of veterinary. Among her steady patients are Junior Frawley's dachshund, Luella Klopf's terrier, and Phyllis Rosa's pekinese.

Down in Miami, Florida, Marjorie Clagett and Jeanne Duncan, editors of the magazine "A Woman's Friend" are vacationing with Lavonne Brandt, million-dollar heiress, and Alice Jacovic, world champion broad jumper.

At the Pan-American Airways in Miami, Sandy Dewar, Jack Everett, Virginia Wilson, and Marjorie Kettlehohn are taking off on a scientific expedition to Brazil.

In Palm Beach, Joanne Dierich, who now owns a fashionable dress shop, is talking to Charlotte Mould, screen actress, and Margaret Speckhard, authority on birds, two of her best customers.

Russell Crandell has just won the golf championship of the world in a tournament held in Atlanta, Georgia. The runner-up was Jim Dye.

In Nashville, Tennessee, Jim Milne now runs an interstate trucking concern. Among his drivers are Duane Kellogg, Hugo List, Robert Stayen, and Floyd Bonk.

In Cincinnati the famous chemists Irving Berlin, Margaret Kuznicki, and Haroldtine Singer have just succeeded in splitting an atom four ways.

Also in Cincinnati is Jin Hubinger who has just received $5,000 for wining a photography contest and has been offered a job as chief cameraman at Super Studios.

The society column of the Indianapolis News reports that Phyllis Spaulding recently strolled up the aisle with Walter Wyss, while Bonnie Kniebbe has exchanged vows with Stewart Wiedenmiller, and Dave Bass has taken Virginia Catterfeld for better or worse.

In Chicago, Doris Brust is giving a musical tea to celebrate her latest poem "To a Flea." Among the guests present are Russell Spaulding, famous radio comedian, Dick Lathrop, society playboy, Peggy Powers, author of the year's best seller "How Green Is My Hillside," and John Picard, noted criminal lawyer.

At Michigan State College are Robert Salenblatt, Keith Crocker, and Kathryn Pries. Kay now teaches art, while Bob coaches the football team, and Keith is a French professor.

At a Tiger game in Detroit, Jerry Bishop, Orlo Wright, Bob McHaney, Vito Tutera, and Elmer Ganschow are listed in the lineup.

In Cleveland, Mayor Emery and Mrs. Emery, the former Betty Brown, are attending a dinner given in honor of the mayor's re-election. Among the guests present are Alfred Hillert, famous poet, Captain James Barron of the United States Air Corps, Lanson DeFore, wealthy furniture owner, and Willian Reid, multi-millionaire.

Dining at a restaurant belonging to Paul Kanonas are many famous celebrities. Donna Harnden, holder of the championship for typing, Carolyn DeForest, famous Petty model, and Jean Withrow, famous artist, are there.

Broadcasting from Richmond's radio station X. Y. Z. is Walter Slack who has become famous for his act "Baby Butch."

At La Guardia Field, air hostesses Marion Maves, Joyce Hayes, Jacolyn Ottersky, and Joyce Willert are enjoying a chat with Ralph Naples, famous professional football player, and Amien Carter, track coach for Yale University.

Mary Theobald and John O'Keefe, stage, screen, and radio star, are now playing in a Broadway hit entitled "Maybe I Will." Also in the cast are Marwood Rupp, Bob Sleamon, and Wilma Farley.

Studying the New York slum problem is Marilyn Waack, a social worker, who has done so much for humanity. Assisting Miss Waack with her work are Jean Lewis, Elsie Barth, Shirley Perry and Margaret Maddison.

On a soap box in Times Square is that top salesman, Ernest Barber selling a new drink sensation, "Swish."

In Boston a great crowd has gathered at a large school building. It is a teacher's convention and there are many familiar faces among which are Verda Kolb, Joyce Stork, Shirley Jarret, Bob Gale, and June Almy.

The scene before our eyes grows dim as Swami's spell is broken. Once more we travel back to 1942 leaving you to fulfill our prophecies.

Signed, the Class of '42

Camera Club

Responsible for the pictures in this Annual Reflector are the members of the Camera Club under the supervision of Mr. Cartwright. The club held its first meeting of the year on November 13 in Room 309.

The main purpose of the Camera Club is to teach amateur photographers the art of taking better pictures. The members this year have made printing boxes and are now able to print pictures from the negative.

The officers that were chosen for this year's group are President, Raymond Strong; vice-president, Marwood Rupp; secretary, James Hubinger.

NINTH GRADE GROUP

REFLECTOR PRINTERS

Printing Department

A GOOD SHARE of the credit for the Annnal Reflector must go to the printing department, for to Mr. Distler and his students falls the job of setting up and printing all school publications.

Printing, besides teaching the fundamentals of the trade, helps the students with their spelling and English. It gives them a chance to put into practice the things they have learned in the class room.

This department prints all the tickets and programs for the plays, operettas, movies, and concerts, the monthly and Annual Reflectors, the printed materials and tickets for the funfest, and also spelling lists or things for the teachers of the building.

Reflector printers are: Elmer Ganschow, Don Goodsell, Bob Jorgenson, Clarence Means, Wayne Mertz, Laverne Pickell, Norman Pockrandt, Leonard Slaski, Joe Jamrog, Paul Henshaw, Richard Kersh, Donald Quellet, Hiel Rockwell, Joe Sota, Raymond White, Fred Daskovitz, Donald Ehlert, James Hubinger, Harvey Reisig, Frank Wedding, Walter Wyss, Jack Egloff, Quan Chin, Victor Hill, James Hood, Donald Schramke, Fred Blake, and Ludwig Mikusek.

Walter Slack: "I wish I had a nickel for every girl I kissed."

Shops

Here in Central are abundant facilities for teaching junior high boys the fundamentals of different trades such as wood, metal, mechanical drawing, and printing.

In the seventh grade each boy makes the rounds of the shops for a period of ten weeks. In the eighth and ninth grades the boys may have their choice of the shops for which they feel they are especially suited.

In the wood shops the pupils have an opportunity to use their constructive ability. Under the direction of Mr. Christie and Mr. Villwock they made such articles for the home as door stops, lamps, nutbowls, book holders, and magazine racks.

In metal shops Mr. Mathews and Mr. Trommer show the boys how simple machines are connected with this trade. They also have an opportunity to do a little forging. In this class they have made scoopes, hasps, hammers, letter holders, and ash trays. During the year a new electric drill press was added to replace the old one.

Mechanical drawing puts into practice the boys' knowledge of mathematics and teaches them the fundamentals of drafting. Mr. Steller also tries to impress on the pupils the need for neatness and accuracy.

EIGHTH GRADE GROUP

REFLECTOR TYPISTS

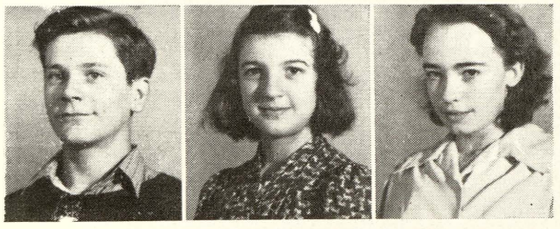
Typing Department

As was explained to the classes at the first of the year, typing is a great help in personal use as in business. Each year many students take typing for personal use only, while others expect to use it in their work and to become very skilled in it.

The first things they were taught were correct fingering, paper centering, and how to set margins. Each week's work was handed in in budget form with a certain amount to be accomplished in a week.

Then followed speed tests. After the typists learned how to obtain their average words per minute, they were given one, two, five, and then ten-minute tests.

Most of the second semester's work was spent in letter writing. When the pupils had learned the fundmentals of personal letters, each one was able to send a letter home to his parents. Following personal letters came business letters in all their different forms.



EIGHTH GRADE GROUP

Those people who were able to do their assigned work and some extra were given Reflector copy to type. This year's Reflector typists were as follows: Gloria Adrian, Jean Ames, Wanita Balhoff, Irving Berlin, Jack Brickel, Virginia Catterfeld, Marjorie Clagett, Jeanne Duncan, Mary Elsea, Norman Frisch, Edward Grenkoski, Jean Gudritz, Donna Harnden, Erna Heinlein, Marjorie Kettlehohn, Nancy Luther, Charlotte Mould, Peggy Powers, Arlene Twietmeyer, Irene Ulicki, Monica Ushinsky, Margaret Wright, and Norma Pinkerton.

April marked the beginning of the tournament held each year to determine the fastest typist. To qualify, the typists were required to have at least twenty-five words a minute.

The first test narrowed down the number of contestants from one hundred twenty-eight to sixty-four. At the finish of the fifth round, only four typists remained: Carl Schrage, Gloria Adrian, Monica Ushinsky, and Peggy Powers. The winner was to be determined at an assembly held for all the typing students on May 22.

EIGHTH GRADE GROUP

Class Will

WE, THE CLASS OF 1942, being of sound mind and strong body, hereby render this document as our last will and testament and leave to the future students and faculty such items as are listed below.

CLASS OF '42

SEVENTH GRADE GROUP

Hi-Y Club

THE HI-Y CLUB of Central Junior High, organized in 1934 for the pupose, as its contitution states, of establishing and keeping of good fellowship and providing educational and recreational opportunities for its members.

Under the direction of Mr. Wotila and Mr. Plambeck, the club enjoyed various activities during the past year including trips to the Carrolton beet sugar factory and the blind institute, several swimming parties at the Y. M. C. A., a pot luck supper, a sleigh ride, and Hi-Y get-together.

SEVENTH GRADE GROUP

The club also served at a "Y" banquet and pledged five dollars to the community chest. The money for this pledge was raised by a salt sale. The officers for the first semester were as follows: President, Walter Ruff; vice-president, Jack Everett; secretary, Don Miller; and treasurer, Jerry Bromm. Second semester officers were: President, Walter Ruff; vice-president and secretary, Donald Miller; treasurer, Victor Olson.

Keith Jacobs: "He's been sitting there all period doing nothing but wasting time."
Miss Leach: "How do you know?"

BAND AND ORCHESTRA

Instrumental Music

CENTRALITES may well be proud of two such fine musical groups as this year's band and orchestra. Under the capable direction of Mr. Kenneth Mathews, both groups have brought credit to the school by their performances both here at Central and in public.

BAND

Central's band has taken part in various activities this year. Its peppy music has added to all programs for which it has played.

Besides playing for matinee performances of plays and for several assemblies and P. T. A.'s, the band marched in the Armistice Day and Santa Claus parades. It participated in the County Field Day program at Hoyt Park, May 1. On May 9, it took part in the fourth annual band festival.

With the orchestra and vocal department, a concert was presented on Friday, February 27, which was well received by the largest audience in Central's history. Five Majorettes, Jacqueline Becker, Barbara Moreau, Pat Holnagle, Jacqueline Swarthouth, and Sally Brown, performed with the band on their opening number. A cornet solo was given by John Nielson and Carl Schrage played an accordian solo.

A French horn trio composed of Marilyn Schmidt, Betty Wilkinson, and Gloria Waack entertained with several selections during the eighth grade band program.

Margaret Tolosa, Pete Oppermann, Marilyn Sheldon, Dick Darger, James Melville, Elaine Geiershbach, and Marion Lee made up the flute septet. Several numbers were played by them.

The band was composed of sixty-nine eighth and ninth graders. James Dye was drum major.

BAND PERSONNEL

Piccolo: Pete Oppermann, Bill Waters.

Flute: Marilyn Sheldon, James Melville, Elaine Geiersbach.

Drums: Dorothy Hughes, Otto Carlson, Virginia Wilson, Jacqueline Becker, Francis Comar, Donald Miller, Walter Ruff.

ORCHESTRA

The thirty-nine eighth and ninth graders who make up the orchestra have completed a successful year. They have provided music for evening performances of plays and joined with the band and music groups in a concert which was presented Friday, February 27.

At Potter School, during the last week in May, a concert was given by the orchestra for the pupils there.

ORCHESTRA PERSONNEL

Auditorium Department

FOUR three-act plays and a program of the three one-act plays made up the productions of this year's dramatics group. The plays were supervised by Mr. Miller, Mr. Huber and Mr. Turner. Mr Huber's duties were taken over by Mr. Turner when he joined the United States Navy. The student directors were John N. Witheridge, Richard Cronk, and Bill Ahrens.

The first play by the Junior Little Theater Group was entitled "King Ko Ko," a premier production of an original play by Mr. Miller and Mr. Turner, written especially for junior high schools. This fine three-act farce-comedy was presented on November 28.

The leading roles were played by Bruce Kampfert, Riva Meredith, and Betty Brown. Other members of the cast included: Bill Reid, Gerry Winslow, Delbert Wilson, John O'Keefe, Sandy Dewar, Amien Carter, Sally Lane, Eloise Bearup, Jack Sparling George Creel, Sally Kuhn, Bob Elliott, Jane Chaffee, Marilyn Holmquist, and Alfred Hillert. The student director was John Witheridge.

With former students playing the leading roles, "King Ko Ko" was again presented on Saturday, November 29, as a benefit performance for the blind, sponsored by Central Junior High School and the Lions Club.

On the afternoon of January 30, three one-act plays were presented, and on the evening of the same day a premier performance of "The Fates Are Women," an excellent comedy by Zelma Oliver of Detroit, was given.

"The Advantages of Being Shy" was directed by Sally Lane. Its cast included Jack Sparling, Edith Morine, Phyllis Spaulding, Betty Jane Kretz, Jean Lewis, and Ruth Davis.

Riva Meredith was student director for "Cold Water and Cash" whose cast included Kathleen O'Dwyer, Wilma Farley, Jean Schneider, Lillian Knack, Dorothy Hendricks, and Alice Stewart.

assisting him. Mrs. Oliver, the author, attended the performance.

"Suicide Specialist," which was presented on March 27, had Richard Cronk as student director. Members of the cast included George Creel, Al Hillert, Mollie Judd, Pat Morrison, Elnora Katter, Margaret Blackmar, June Moses, Jerry Corbett, Bill Simpson, Jack Everett, Barbara Colvin, Jack Sparling, and Phyllis Spaulding.

The last and possibly the most entertaining play for Junior high audiences, due to its unusual sound and lighting effects, was "The Valley of the Ghosts." Richard Cronk was again student director. Members of the cast were as follows: Sally Lane, Charlotte Mould, Jean Lewis, Betty Brown, Sally Kuhn, Riva Meredith, Marilyn Holmquist, Gerry Winslow, Pat Cowles, Joanne Deirich, Sandy Dewar, William Ahrens, John Picard, Howard Smith, Bill Reid, Russell Spaulding, Bruce Kampfert, Marwood Rupp, and Jack Everett.

Make-up Committee

Much of the success of these plays was due to the co-operation of the make-up committee. Members of this committee included Mary Theobald, Mary Ahrens, Marilyn Holmquist, Sally Kuhn, Ruth Mary Schmidt, Donna Nelson, Delbert Wilson, and pupils of the auditorium classes.

Stage Crew

Another important group that deserves credit is the stage crew. Responsible for lighting effects, stage setting, and the curtain, the following members of stage crew carried out their duties in a very capable manner. This hard-working group included James Newton, Earl Young, Wallace Collins, Carl Lehner, Harold Ryman, Robert Brown, Raymond Strong, Edward Wallace, Howard Lamb, and Jack Main.

SEVENTH GRADE GROUP

Latin Club

CENTRAL JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL'S Latin Club, sponsored by Mr. Etkind, held regular meetings every Tuesday at four-ten in Room 204. The meetings were divided into two parts, business and recreational. Two consuls alternated in presiding over the business part of the meetings at which important matters of the club were discussed.

When the business meeting was adjourned, the aediles took charge of the programs consisting of games, reports, and the singing of Latin songs. Interesting reports were given on the town life of the early Romans, Roman amusements, early education, and ancient myths. Two scavenger hunts were enjoyed, a short skit on the Trojan War was dramatized and a bicycle hike was held. A constitution for the club was written up by a committee, and plans were also completed for an amateur show to be presented as entertainment preceding a school party.

The following were elected in the first semester to serve as officers: Consuls, Roger Warren and Virginia Wilson; aediles, Roger Dewar and Mary Theobald; quaestor, Margaret Speckhard; praetor, Otto Carlson; scriba, Virginia Catterfeld; iudices, Alfred Hillert, Elsie Barth, Bill Ried, and Sally Lane.

A Roman banquet took place May 26, in Room 204, to which members came dressed as Roman gods and goddesses. They dined in Roman style and ate Roman food. A silver loving cup was presented to the person with the highest number of activity points, earned by preparing games, particpating in special activities, and by attending meetings.

NINTH GRADE CHOIR

Vocal Music Department

THROUGHOUT the year a very interesting program was carried out by the seventh grade music classes, with Miss Sutton as their advisor. About thirty composers were studied and summaries of their lives made into scrapbooks.

Members of the seventh grade classes and choir took part in many school activities including the November P. T. A., the Christmas program, and the May P.T.A.

The eighth graders, as one of their many accomplishments, have learned to enjoy the rhythm of music and have studied its background. They also prepared short programs for the class, many being of a patriotic nature.

To climax the year's activities the eighth grade classes worked on a one-act operetta entitled "Midsummer's Magic."

The ninth grade vocal music classes have completed many successful enterprises, this year under the supervision of Mrs. Ulman.

An international P. T. A. program was presented in October. Seventh, eighth, and ninth grade choirs, sang in joint program of the band, orchestra, and vocal music departments.

"Christmas in Old England," was the title of the operetta given at Christmas time. Joyce Nichols, Peggy Osmond, Jack Everett, and Norman Pockrandt played the leads in this P. T. A. program.

Throughout the year a few programs have been prepared for the classes, which included solos, duets, reports on composers, and musical games.

On June 5, the annual operetta entitled "Love Pirates of Hawaii" was presented with a double cast. The leads were played by Shirley Pettyplace, Ruth Davis, Robert Warner and Harry Basse. Sub-leads were played by Margaret Wright, Nancy Jessmore, William Waters, and Jack Keane.

Music students were invited to entertain at the Westside Masonic Temple where they supplied songs and dances for an international program.

Library

CENTRAL'S attractive, well-lighted library has three of its walls lined with books of almost any type a pupil would want to read. The library classes, under the direction of Mrs. Cubbage, are taught many different things including conduct in the library, how to use books, the use of files, reference books, and indexes, and other uses of the dictionary besides definitions. Projects on the lives of famous Americans were made by the classes this year. Outstanding projects were made on Henry Wadsworth Longfellow by Sally Neiderstadt, and on President Franklin D. Roosevelt by Dorothy Sherbino. The library is also used by the various English classes.

During book week the books which had won the John Newberry prize were on display in the library.

Besides the three thousand volumes which are now in the library, three hundred new books have been ordered for next year. These include biographies, mysteries, non-fiction books, career books, stories of foreign countries, books on the insigna of the army and navy, and stories on hobbies.

When you glance at the magazine rack you see a variety of publications including: Boy's Life, American Girl, Newsweek, Popular Science, Youth, Musical America, and many others.

Student Government

THIS YEAR as in past years the student government has been divided into two groups, the Presidents and Vice-Presidents Councils. This form of school government was chosen again this year because it has proven so successful in other years.

The Presidents Council was made up of presidents from the forty-six home rooms of Central. At their meeting they discussed various school problems and tried to find solutions for them.

The scrap metal campaign with Sally Lane acting as chairman was one of the most important activities of the year This city-wide drive was put on to collect scrap metal for National Defense, and Central's pupils took an active part in the campaign under the direction of their home room president.

The Presidents Council also helped police with the registering of bicycles on May 20. This organization also participated in the annual Clean-Up Campaign. This year the campaign lasted from May 4-13.

Faculty Notes

NUMEROUS changes in the faculty took place during 1941-42. At the first of the year many new teachers were on hand in place of those who had left. Among these was Miss Schwarzkopf, English teacher in 213, who is a native of Saginaw. She attended Michigan State Normal College.

Miss Heermans, who is from Molin, Illinois, taught science in Room 311 this year. Previously she taught at Western College after graduating from the University of Illinois. This is Miss Leach's first year of teaching. Before coming to Central she attended Central State Teachers College. Miss Leach has been teaching ninth grade English in 314.

From Marquette, Michigan, came Mr. Wotila, civics teacher in 203, a graduate of Northern Education College. He had five years of teaching experience before coming to Central.

Mr. Plambeck, in Room 312A, lives in Saginaw and attended Saginaw High School. He was graduated from Kempton College, Columbus, Ohio. His subjects are civics and math.

Also new at Central and new at teaching in September was Mr. Adams, science teacher in Room 306. His "book larnin' " was acquired at Alma College.

Replacing Mr. Monson, mechanical drawing teacher in Shop K who was transferred to Saginaw High, was Mr. Steller. A "Jack-of-all-trades," he did various kinds of work before starting to teach. He attended Arthur Hill Trade School and plans to go to summer school.

Mr. Huber, auditorium teacher and play director, left in March to render his services in the Navy. He was stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station in Illinois but has been transferred to Utah. Although he specialized in auditorium work he also has taught typing and English. His duties were taken over by Mr. Turner.

A mid-year change was made with the replacement of Mrs. Richards, by Miss Pierson, home economics teacher. Mrs. Richards left to marry Mr. Otto Meyers, former Reflector adviser. After graduating from Saginaw High Miss Pierson attended Michigan State College and then taught at Lansing for a year.

Taking over the duties of Miss Hemingway, who was married in March, was Miss Durham, and replacing Mrs. Plowe, who left Saginaw, was Mrs. Curtis.

Perfect Attendance

MEMBERS of the student body deserving recognition are those who have perfect attendance records. Monica Ushinski, Marilyn Holmquist, Robert Veasley, Florence Michalski, Verda Kolb, Francis Comar, Donald Newvine, Helaine Matzke, Jim Milne, and Frank Wedding are nine ninth graders who may be proud of their three years of perfect attendance.

Ninth graders who boast two years without being absent or tardy are: Barbara Moreau, Vito Tutera, Marilyn Waack, Gloria Adrian, and Walter Chmielewski.

The following ninth graders have been neither absent nor tardy this year: Lois Oehring, Peggy Powers, Shirley Reidel, Marilyn Sheldon, Beverly Sheppard, Leona Simon, Barbara Zwerk, Frank Fila, Richard Reist, Waneta Twietmeyer, Marvin Rethman, Shirley Rodgers, Geneva Sparks, Jean Ames, Lawrence Bryant, Donald Strachan, Wanita Balhoff, Florence Cunningham, Joyce Hayes, Betty Jean Jones, Charles James, Marjorie Clagett, Helen Fila, Betty Fischer, Edward Fluder, Shirley Jarrett, Elsenia King, Donald Douglas, Alice Stewart, Marion Williams, Luella Wilson, and Jack Smith.

Home Economics Classes

Food

Delicious odors have been constantly escaping from the foods classes, while the girls were learning to become excellent cooks.

It wasn't as simple as it sounds, however, for the girls had to learn many things before they started to cook. How to wash dishes in the proper manner may not seem important but it really is, and all these girls are thoroughly coached in this. Equivlaents and care of cooking implements are also studied.

When the girls do get to their cooking, they learn it from the bottom up. Seventh grade girls learn all about preparing foods for breakfasts, eighth graders study what foods are best for luncheons, and ninth grade girls learn about dinners.

These girls not only learn how to prepare these meals but also how to serve them. Each class divides into groups and in turn they serve each other in the dining room.

Beside the usual routine some of the girls made extra note books on vitamins and nutrition this year.

Clothing

In seventh sewing classes the girls first learned how to repair clothing. After learning a variety of stitches they completed a towel. But the pride in their towels could not match their satisfaction when they finished pot holders, their first machine projects.

Next came an important step in their progress. They learned about patterns, how to pin them and how to cut and paste them. Finally came the important day when they held up the material which had once been just part of a long roll of cloth but now, through the magic of their own fingers, was transformed into a cooking apron.

From the seventh grade classes these girls will move up to eighth and ninth grade groups where they will first study different materials and then go on to make slips, blouses, shorts, jerkins, and dresses.

This year the sewing classes wound up their study when a number of girls were picked to model some of their work in a style show which was presented for a P. T. A. meeting.

Home Economics Club

The Home Economics Club is a new project which was started this year. Members of both cooking and sewing classes organized the club under the supervision of Miss Vasold. The club's main activity has been sewing for the Red Cross.

Gay Rebel Girl Reserves

The Gay Rebel Girl Reserves, who meet every Wednesday in room 103 at 4:30, have had an interesting year under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Willert. Their various activities include dressing dolls for poor children, making pins for the girl reserves bazaar, a hayride and a dance.

The officers are as follows: President, Norma Jean Tillock; vice-president, Jane Chaffee; and secretary, Donna Skimin.

Maintenance Staff

Taking care of Central is a big job. Inside and around the building there is much work to do. Keeping the building heated, preparing food, laundering, sweeping the halls, and keeping Central clean are just part of the tasks of the maintenance staff.

Members of the maintenance staff are Hattie Wiechmann and Stella Scheoning, who have charge of the cafeteria, Anna Reynolds, laundress, William Deetz, head of the janitors, assisted by Louis Brackley, George Hoedel, Jerry Lachapelle and George Thompson. Louis Martin and John Stimpson are the firemen, and James Murray and Carl Phillips are the engineers.
